ANRE ARCHITECTS

ANRE ARCHITECTS

ANASTASIA REZNIKOVA -

An architect who knows how to create and manage processes effectively.
Last year, I simultaneously worked with various teams under my supervision:

- 2 penthouses of 200 and 350 sq.m.
- 3 apartments of 350 sq.m.
- A private villa of 3000 sq.m.
- A commercial beauty center of 3000 sq.m.
- Master plan and initial construction phase in Bali — 20 villas of 100 sq.m.

I act as a conductor, representing the client's interests before a team of performers: builders, engineers, designers, and suppliers.
My decisions are always made in favor of the client, thanks to my experience and ability to manage private and commercial projects under a general power of attorney.

Management work is paid monthly (covering the costs of the assembled project team) plus a percentage (10-20%) of the project's implementation under a general contracting agreement.

I am invited to participate in projects that require special attention, high qualification, and significant energy.
I am not afraid of not knowing something, as any situation can be solved with the help of the best advisors and specialized professionals.
I have a proven model that allows me to listen to at least 3-5 competent specialists and independently make decisions in favor of the client.

Complex and large-scale tasks attract my attention.

HISTORY OF THE PATH:

In 2007, I began my career in the design of restaurants, bars, and hotels, gaining practical experience under the guidance of active curators at the university. During this period, I also worked on the restoration of museums and public spaces, as well as designing and renovating small apartments under contracts with developers. Gradually, I received orders for larger apartment and house projects, including villas in Denmark and Cyprus.

Since 2018, I have focused exclusively on private projects carried out under general power of attorney, managing all construction, engineering, and architectural processes independently. From 2021 to 2024, I strengthened my personal approach to managing construction processes in both private and commercial projects.

Currently, I am developing a service for agents and brokers of elite real estate and have opened a showroom near my workshop on Big Dmitrovka for meetings with clients and partners.

I also continue working with CLT building methods and successfully implement private projects, such as Spa v Lesu, emphasizing the importance of caring for nature, health, and the beauty of spaces both inside and out — architecture as part of the person's project, "the human in a model."

I am developing an educational course for architects on management and leading exclusive projects upon request, including private villa projects for rental businesses in Bali and providing online consulting.

My approach to business processes highlights key

1. Transition from Classical to Vertical Management:
   - Shifted from direct designer-client interactions to a vertical management system based on a power of attorney as the client's representative.
   - This transformation reduced the volume of inbound requests, focusing on high-quality, meaningful projects aligned with the client's conscious choices.

2. Increased Responsibility and Value:
   - Such a structure vested greater accountability in each team member.
   - It allowed for higher pricing for work and overall improved process management in the client's interests.

3. Unified Team Functionality:
   - The team now operates as a cohesive unit of assistants rather than isolated designers.
   - This organization enables you to concentrate on strategic and creative aspects without being bogged down by routine tasks.

4. Developing Creative Ecosystem:
   - Your methodology extends beyond a business system, forming a dynamic creative environment that values comfort, beauty, and fluidity.
   - This mindset translates into a multi-dimensional abundance, fostering original and meaningful creations.

5. Comprehensive Project Oversight:
   - Clients seek your expertise for idea generation, visual and stylistic packaging, significance validation, architectural, and interior design.
   - You oversee all stages, including construction and supervision, delivering a finished project tailored to the client's expectations.

This approach embodies a holistic, client-centric, and innovative model that integrates strategic management with creative excellence
